National Gallery of Modern Art, Bengaluru, Ministry of Culture, Government of India in collaboration with Guild Art Gallery, is pleased to host the exhibition "And the last shall be the first: G. R. Iranna Works 1995-2015" curated by renowned international curator Ranjit Hoskote. The exhibition, will offer viewers a museum-level mid-career survey of the artist's engagement, bringing together a variety of works representing two decades of his oeuvre. These works will include paintings on canvas, watercolors, drawings, sculptures and installations, and will bear witness to the depth and range of Iranna's artistic explorations as well as those works that have rarely been viewed.

The exhibition will draw on the artist's upbringing and early student years in Karnataka, as well as addressing his subsequent career as a Delhi-based artist working in the context of global contemporary art. Iranna has a diversified, innovative and intellectually engaged practice. He is one of the very significant artists of his generation and has numerous awards and acclaims to his credit.
