BANGALORE AS A CREATIVE CITY:
Towards Policy Recommendations

Thursday 29th September, 2011 (10.30 am to 7.00 pm)

Can we re-imagine arts and culture as inhabiting urban spaces in new and exciting ways?

For the first time artists and cultural practitioners, culture space managers, representatives of government departments and private companies, and experts on urban planning and cultural policy will come together to examine the space inhabited by art and culture and the role it plays in our urban environment.

The platform envisages a central place for arts and culture in urban planning that has till now predominantly focused on infrastructure. It will result in a set of policy recommendations for cultural spaces that will help fashion Bangalore into a Creative City.

Speakers include: K.Jairaj (I.A.S), Naresh Narasimhan (Architect and Urban Planner), Jagan Shah (Architect & Urban Planner), Sunitha Kumar Emmart (Gallerist), Prakash Belawadi (Writer and Director), Soumitro Ghosh (Architect and Urban Planner), N. Pushpamala (Artist), Arundhati Nag (Actor), Ashwin Mahesh (Urban Research Strategist), Sadanand Menon (Cultural Critic), Pooja Sood (Independent Curator) and Ashish Rajadhyaksha (Cultural Theorist)
